

Privacy Policy

Who we are:

“Murray Hay Solicitors is committed to maintaining the trust and confidence of our visitors to our web site. In particular, we want you to know that Murray Hay Solicitors is not in the business of selling, renting or trading email lists with other companies and businesses for marketing purposes. We just don't do that sort of thing. But just in case you don't believe us, in this Privacy Policy, we've provided lots of detailed information on when and why we collect your personal information, how we use it, the limited conditions under which we may disclose it to others and how we keep it secure.”

The types of data we collect:

Website cookies

Google analytics

When someone visits murrayhay.co.uk we use a third party service, Google Analytics, to collect standard internet log information and details of visitor behaviour patterns. We do this to find out things such as the number of visitors to the various parts of the site. This information is only processed in a way which does not identify anyone. We do not make, and do not allow Google to make, any attempt to find out the identities of those visiting our website.

Contact enquiries

When you contact us via our website name, email and contact number will be stored in our sales CRM system. Please be assured that we do not share your personal details with any other company without your consent and that all Data processing is fully compliant with all current Data Protection Regulations.

Access to your personal information

You are entitled to view, amend, or delete the personal information that we hold. Email your request to our data protection officer Ian Hay at ian@murrayhay.co.uk.

Changes to this privacy policy

This policy was created on the 24th May 2018, it will be reviewed annually from this date.